

CATHARSIS PRODUCTIONS PROGRAMMING

NEW SOLDIER
SEX SIGNALS: MILITARY

EXPERIENCED SOLDIER
GOT YOUR BACK

SOLDIER IN LEADERSHIP
BEAT THE BLAME GAME: MILITARY

TRANSFER CAPACITY
THE ARMED FORCE OF AWESOME INSTITUTE

SOLDIER IN COMMAND
THE CANARY IN THE COAL MINE

SOLDIER IN LEADERSHIP

BEAT THE BLAME GAME: MILITARY

PROGRAM OVERVIEW

In order for sexual predators to be stopped and held accountable, the culture must see their actions as deplorable and in direct opposition to their mission and core values. A critical strategy for eliminating a rape-supportive culture is challenging victim blaming—the belief that the victim is at least partly responsible for their rape. Individuals who blame rape victims for their victimization are less able to support survivors in their midst, intervene proactively when they see an individual in a sexually threatening situation, and will fail to challenge the larger culture that supports sexually coercive behavior. To meet this need, Beat the Blame Game actively engages participants in breaking down the most common reasons why people blame victims and support alleged perpetrators, and then dismantles those arguments by applying logic, ethics, and exposing the reality of sexual violence. Our highly-skilled educators are able to engage participants (in both small and large groups) in a dynamic conversation that enables them to challenge their own beliefs without being shamed, as well as provide the skills to constructively challenge those views when expressed by others. In addition, this enables the survivors of sexual violence, both male and female, to cease blaming themselves for their victimization, and get the critical support they need to recover. This program can be adapted for a range of audiences, including leadership; trainers; civilian populations; and, diverse audiences.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

- Introduce participants to the concepts of “Just World Hypothesis” and “Hindsight Bias,” in order to understand why so many people justify victim blaming arguments and false beliefs about sexual violence
- Enable participants to recognize the distinct markers of victim blaming arguments and the beliefs that undergird them, both in their own thinking and in others
- Enable participants to understand the different ways in which male and female victims are blamed
- Provide participants with counter-arguments they can use to challenge victim blaming statements
- Enable participants to better support survivors who may be blaming themselves for their victimization, instead of getting the help they need of respondents say that if they hear someone at work making inappropriate sexual comments to someone else, they will say or do something about it

85%

—Survey Result, Got Your Back, 2014

92%

of participants agreed the scenarios were more applicable to AIT than most of the sexual assault training they had previously received
—Survey Result, Platoon Sergeant School Pilot

Contact Us

web: military.catharsisproductions.com

email: info@catharsisproductions.com

phone: 312-243-0022